

Storage stand for soldering iron 815 / 816

The storage stand model 635-01 from HAKKO is designed to fit the soldering iron models 815 and 816 and offers a safe and practical storage option for everyday work. It ensures that the soldering iron can be placed in a stable position during work breaks and at the same time protects the working environment from accidental contact with hot components.

The scope of delivery includes a cleaning sponge (A1495), which enables simple and effective cleaning of the soldering tip. This supports the quality of work and extends the service life of the soldering tip.

The storage stand is a useful addition to any soldering workstation and contributes to safe, clean and structured work, especially for regular soldering work in workshops, production or service areas.
